

Wayne County Coaching Network

This Network is designed to offer opportunities for deep study of research-based practices using collaborative inquiry (Problems of Practice), common texts, and discussion of the Essential Coaching Practices for Literacy. Building and sustaining relationships between both teacher-coach and principal-coach roles, developing assessment literacy knowledge and skills, & promoting equity through coaching will be unpacked. Forums led by district coaches and WRESA consultants will provide additional focused learning.

Entering The Conversation

In this learning series coaches will explore their current beliefs and how those beliefs might facilitate or debilitate the relationship with a teacher. This training will provide the coaches with knowledge, skills, and dispositions to shift teachers' thinking from responding, "This is how we have always done it" to considering new possibilities. Coaches will acquire a vast knowledge of effective coaching skills to mediate thinking of the teachers they coach. This will enable the teachers to think deeply about their practice to monitor and adjust as necessary. Coaches will understand the link between effective coaching and the transformation of teacher practice. Facilitated By: Dr. Diane Jackson

Continuing The Conversation

This workshop is a follow-up to the Building Coaching Strategies: Entering into the Conversation series. In this course, participants will explore their adaptations to coaching by considering the implementation of new skills and dispositions, the challenges of working with adult learners, and the value of coaching. Using scenarios to prompt deeper analysis, participants will determine which additional supports might be needed in order to further strengthen their coaching abilities. The intended audience is instructional coaches and literacy specialists, though it is appropriate for anyone in an instructional coaching role. Facilitated By: Dr. Diane Jackson
